

USE OF THE INDEX

Book Publishing Company uses an indexing system especially suited to the municipal codes. Similar in form to the usual index, our system follows code organization and is designed to facilitate supplementation. Each section is indexed under one main heading, with single references for required appeals, fees, bonds, licenses and permits. Multiple entries increase page costs and the likelihood of error in later supplements; therefore, extensive cross-references are used in lieu of multiple entries to direct the code user to the information sought.

To help you understand how our indexing system works, listed below are eight typical entries. These entries are keyed to brief explanations of their form and purpose. The typeface of a cross-reference indicates its place in the index. Here are some examples:

EXPLANATION OF ENTRIES

1. Information is under a specific heading, such as SALES, USE TAX or TRANSIENT OCCUPANCY TAX.
2. Related entries can be found under the heading VEHICLE.
3. Information can be located at another division of this heading.
4. Officials and agencies usually have their own entries.
5. Parking provisions of the traffic title are indexed separately under PARKING.
6. Information is under the heading TRAFFIC, consolidated under the subheading Control device.
7. Provisions have been consolidated with similar information, under the heading PEDDLER.
8. Zoning provisions are indexed under ZONING. A more extensive treatment is given these provisions: permitted uses and development standards are listed under both specific and general headings, as in these examples:
